

Vertage

Chef Margaux Riccio, developed a dangerous dairy allergy early on in her career. Rather than stepping off the line as a chef, Margaux created her own restaurant where she served an entirely plant-based menu. The popularity of her restaurant blossomed into multiple restaurants in the DC area catching the eyes of a community of chefs who helped foster the development of these cheeses, featuring them on their own sought-after menus. Also taking notes were former executives in fast food (Chipotle), fine dining (Eleven Madison Park), and food tech (JUST) who together nurtured Vertage to bloom.

These world-class food industry veterans joined forces in the name of Vertage (and for the love of cheese).
